1. Introduction

1.2 Why choose Cambridge IGCSE Bangladesh Studies?

Cambridge IGCSE Bangladesh Studies is accepted by universities and employers as proof of knowledge and understanding.

The IGCSE Bangladesh Studies syllabus introduces candidates to the country's history, culture, geography, environment, economy and development. This syllabus will give candidates not just a balanced understanding of the heritage and history of Bangladesh, but also an awareness of the challenges and opportunities facing this important state. Simultaneously, the course will also develop core transferable skills in interpreting and analysing a variety of sources of information, and in evaluating a range of evidence and in drawing conclusions. Such skills provide a firm foundation for more advanced study in secondary school and in higher education, to say nothing of their value as preparation for future employment in a wide range of occupations and professions.

IGCSE Bangladesh Studies is one of the suite of area studies offered by CIE.

1.3 Cambridge International Certificate of Education (ICE)

Cambridge ICE is the group award of the International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE). It requires the study of subjects drawn from the five different IGCSE subject groups. It gives schools the opportunity to benefit from offering a broad and balanced curriculum by recognising the achievements of students who pass examinations in at least seven subjects, including two languages, and one subject from each of the other subject groups.

The Cambridge portfolio of IGCSE qualifications provides a solid foundation for higher level courses such as GCE A and AS Levels and the International Baccalaureate Diploma as well as excellent preparation for employment.

A wide range of IGCSE subjects is available and these are grouped into five curriculum areas. Bangladesh Studies (0449) falls into Group II, Humanities and Social Sciences.

4. Syllabus content

Section A History and culture of Bangladesh (Paper 1)

Guidance for teachers

1. Teachers are advised to plan their scheme of work so that each of the Topics 1–5 will be approximately one term's work.
2. In addition to Topic 1 (The Culture and Heritage of Bangladesh), which has a compulsory exam question, teachers are strongly advised to teach all of the historical Topics 2 to 5, so that candidates are able to answer questions from across the whole syllabus content; otherwise they may find their choice of questions restricted.
3. Topic 1 is designed to give teachers the opportunity to draw from a wide variety of cultural experiences. Candidates must be familiar with the contributions made by those exponents specifically listed in the syllabus. Questions will also provide the opportunity for candidates to provide supporting evidence from any relevant examples. Consequently, teachers might like to include a study of poetry, song, dance, drama and visits to local sites of cultural interest to enhance their students' understanding and interest.
4. Topics 2 to 5 outline the historical detail which candidates are expected to be familiar with. Centres should note that their teaching of this material should reflect the weightings of the Assessment Objectives in section 3.2. Although factual recall is important, more marks will be awarded for demonstrating an understanding of concepts, such as causation and change, as well as an appreciation that history involves differing points of view. Where appropriate, teachers should take the opportunity to point out that events may have been interpreted differently by different groups of historians.
5. A vital part of the teaching process should be to prepare candidates to answer the type of questions which will appear on the examination paper. For that reason, it is vital to pay close attention to past papers, mark schemes and reports as well as the other support resources endorsed by the University of Cambridge International Examinations. Candidates should also be encouraged to look at the mark allocations for the questions and to plan their length of response and time accordingly.
6. A Scheme of Work, with suggested teaching activities, is available from the University of Cambridge International Examinations.

Syllabus Section B is divided into two parts, containing a total of 10 topics:

- Environment (Topics 1–4)
- Economy and Development (Topics 5–10)

Guidance for teachers

1. Teachers are advised to plan their scheme of work so that each of the Topics 1–10 will take approximately half a term to teach. As the topics are inter-related, teachers are encouraged to produce as much cohesion as possible between the topics.
2. Examples of these inter-relationships:
 - natural topography [1a] with agriculture [6a,b,c]
 - climate [2] with storms, floods and drought [4b,c,d] and agriculture [6a,b,c]

4. The candidates should use and understand the specialist vocabulary for this syllabus. Such examples include: physical factors, human factors, distribution patterns, aquaculture, deforestation, technology, capital, population structure, infant mortality, literacy.
5. Teachers should use diagrams, graphs, maps, tables, newspaper articles, photographs, etc. wherever possible. This will enable the candidates to extract information from them, in order to develop their understanding of the topics covered.
6. The syllabus is concerned with a knowledge of broad trends and not necessarily up-to-date statistics.
7. Teachers should note that their teaching of this material should reflect the weightings of the Assessment Objectives set out in the syllabus. Although knowledge and understanding are important, the syllabus also aims to develop skills in using resources such as maps and graphs. It also aims to stimulate discussion on the issues and challenges raised. Teachers should therefore also develop candidates' resource skills and should encourage candidates to express their opinions and make evaluations (e.g. on environmental challenges, or health and education).
8. A vital part of the teaching process should be to prepare candidates to answer the type of questions which will appear on the examination paper. For that reason, it is vital that to pay close attention to past papers, mark schemes and reports as well as the other support resources endorsed by the University
