Mark Scheme for Specimen Paper 2

Introduction

These specimen papers are for the revised scheme of assessment for Papers 1 and 2 for first examination in the May/June session 2006. For full details teachers should consult the Syllabus booklet.

There are no changes to the listening and oral components in 2006. (Teachers should consult the Syllabus booklet and past papers for those components.)

Duration, weighting in the exam as a whole, Core/Extended tiering, total raw marks, and cover sheet rubrics remain unchanged in 2006. The main purpose of this booklet is to illustrate the revised format of the Reading and Writing papers and mark allocations for each exercise which will come into effect in 2006.

No major changes are envisaged to the ways in which teachers and candidates prepare for the examination; much in these specimen papers has been taken or adapted from materials used in past papers. Nevertheless, it will be important for teachers and candidates to be clear about how the structure of the papers will change.

Summary of key changes

- Reduction in total number of exercises (with some changes in mark allocations for particular exercises) on both Papers 1 and 2.
- Each paper will contain seven exercises, which will be called 'Exercise 1', 'Exercise 2'... (The current 'Part 1, Exercise 1...etc' scheme will not be used.) See Syllabus booklet for a description of each exercise, and its assessment objectives.
- A new reading task being assessed in Paper 1 is Note making (new Exercise 4), which on Paper 1 will be linked to the Exercise 5 summary. Teachers of Core learners will need to become familiar with the requirements of Exercise 4, but they will already be used to note-making tasks if they have been teaching candidates for Paper 2.
- A new reading task being assessed in Paper 2 is Information transfer/form filling (new Exercise 3). Teachers of Extended learners will need to become familiar with the requirements of Exercise 3, but they will already be familiar with a simpler version of it if they have been teaching candidates for Paper 1.
- The general criteria for marking the extended writing tasks (now Exercise 6 and Exercise 7 in each paper) have been revised, and full details appear in the mark schemes.

Exercise 2

The following newspaper article is about an area in the north of India where people frequently travel in search of adventure. Read it carefully and then answer the questions on the opposite page.

The Himalaya mountains are a favourite destination of more and more people. Improved transport, access to previously forbidden area, and the increasing number of specialised tour operators have all contributed to a rapid rise in the number of tourists entering the area in the last three decades. This increase has caused problems throughout the region and in Nandra Devi in particular. Now conservation work has started to try and improve the situation...

NANDRA DEVI NATIONAL PARK

Nandra Devi lies 530 kilometres northeast of Delhi and is regarded by people living there as the most beautiful of the Himalaya mountains. The surrounding area is called the 'Valley of the Lost Horizon' and is rich in animal, plant and bird life.

Nandra Devi National Park opened to tourists in 1974 but, because there were no restrictions and no rules, the area had to be closed again in 1983 to give it time to recover from the destruction caused by the tourists. At the time of writing this article, the park is still closed.

Before the area was closed in 1983 the mountaineers, trekkers, naturalists, ornithologists, botanists, geologists and researchers who entered the area in their thousands had a devastating effect. There were three main problems as a result. The first problem was overgrazing, caused by the large number of pack animals needed to support expeditions.

This meant that the natural vegetation was replaced by very much harder kinds of grass and other plants which the animals would not eat. The trouble was that the native wild animals wouldn't eat it either. Second, the porters who accompanied the expeditions to Nandra Devi were often not supplied with fuel for cooking or with tents for shelter. This meant that large numbers of trees were cut down both for cooking fires and to build shelters. Thinning out the forests eroded the topsoil and plant life was disturbed, causing unstable conditions. Third, the amount of rubbish increased and became a big problem which was made worse by huge amounts of unused equipment which was just dumped by departing mountaineering expeditions. Medicines that had been left behind entered the water system. This caused river pollution and was harmful to wildlife.

The area of Nandra Devi has been chosen as one of twelve areas in India which are going to be preserved as areas of special interest. It is certainly true that if it is going to be opened again to tourists there will have to be rules to make sure that damage does not occur again.

(a) Give two reasons why the number of tourists visiting the Himalaya area increased.

.....[2]

(b) Give two reasons why the Nandra Devi area is special.

.....[1]

(c) Why did the park have to close in 1983?

.....[1]

(d) What was the main problem with the new types of grass?

.....[1]

(e) Explain why the trees being cut down caused problems.

.....[1]

(f) Based on what you have read, make a list of four points of advice which you would give to an expedition visiting Nandra Devi.

Exercise 3

Tariq Dinah is 16 years old and is a keen table tennis player. He attends a school in Dhaka (in Bangladesh) where he is studying for his IGCSE exams. He lives with his family at House 6, Road 640, Dhanmandi, Dhaka, and has played table tennis for six years. He is currently the under-16 regional champion, and is now keen to get more tournament experience and to become the under-18 champion (just like his older brother in 2001).

In a local newspaper, Tariq has seen this advertisement for a table tennis tournament in which he would like to compete. He wishes to enter the singles competition and would like to play doubles, too, with his sister Aniqah who is 14. Their parents are happy to allow them to enter the tournament.

Tariq and Aniqah both go to a chess club every Wednesday evening, so they could not compete then. The family's telephone number is 212321. Tariq doesn't have his own computer, but he can send and receive email on a computer at his school, where his email address is dinah.t@abc.com.

Exercise 4

Read the article below about the effects of the El Nino storms on sea lions, and then complete the note-taking exercise on the opposite page. (Sea lions are large seals that live in the Pacific Ocean, but can move on land.)

SEA LIONS SEEK REFUGE FROM EL NINO

In a normal winter, this is the slow season for the Friends of the Sea Lion Marine Mammal Centre at Laguna Beach, California – a time to prepare for the busy weeks of spring and summer, when the bulk of the youngest of the sad-eyed creatures come ashore in need of nurturing, food and rest. But this is an El Nino winter and it seems nothing is as it should be, on land or at sea.

Around this time last year, the Centre had seven sea lions to care for and eventually release. Today there are 73, most of them weak and underweight young pups that have been beached and battered by the storms of El Nino.

Filled to capacity, the Centre stopped taking in new sea lions on 4 February and eventually closed its gift shop because it needed the space for its overflowing population. The Centre's office has been converted into a special care unit, housing 13 of the smallest and weakest pups. To answer the telephone, the staff members sometimes have to push a sea lion off it first!

Often when the sea lions come in they have to be wrapped in blankets because they are cold and skinny. Once they begin recovering, they can be moved into the pools.

El Nino, the huge body of warm water in the Pacific that has altered weather conditions around the world, has harmed the sea lions and their cousins in several different ways. It has made the winds and the waves worse, the ocean currents stronger. And the waters off California are five degrees warmer than normal, so much of the fish population that the sea lions rely on has left the area in search of colder waters.

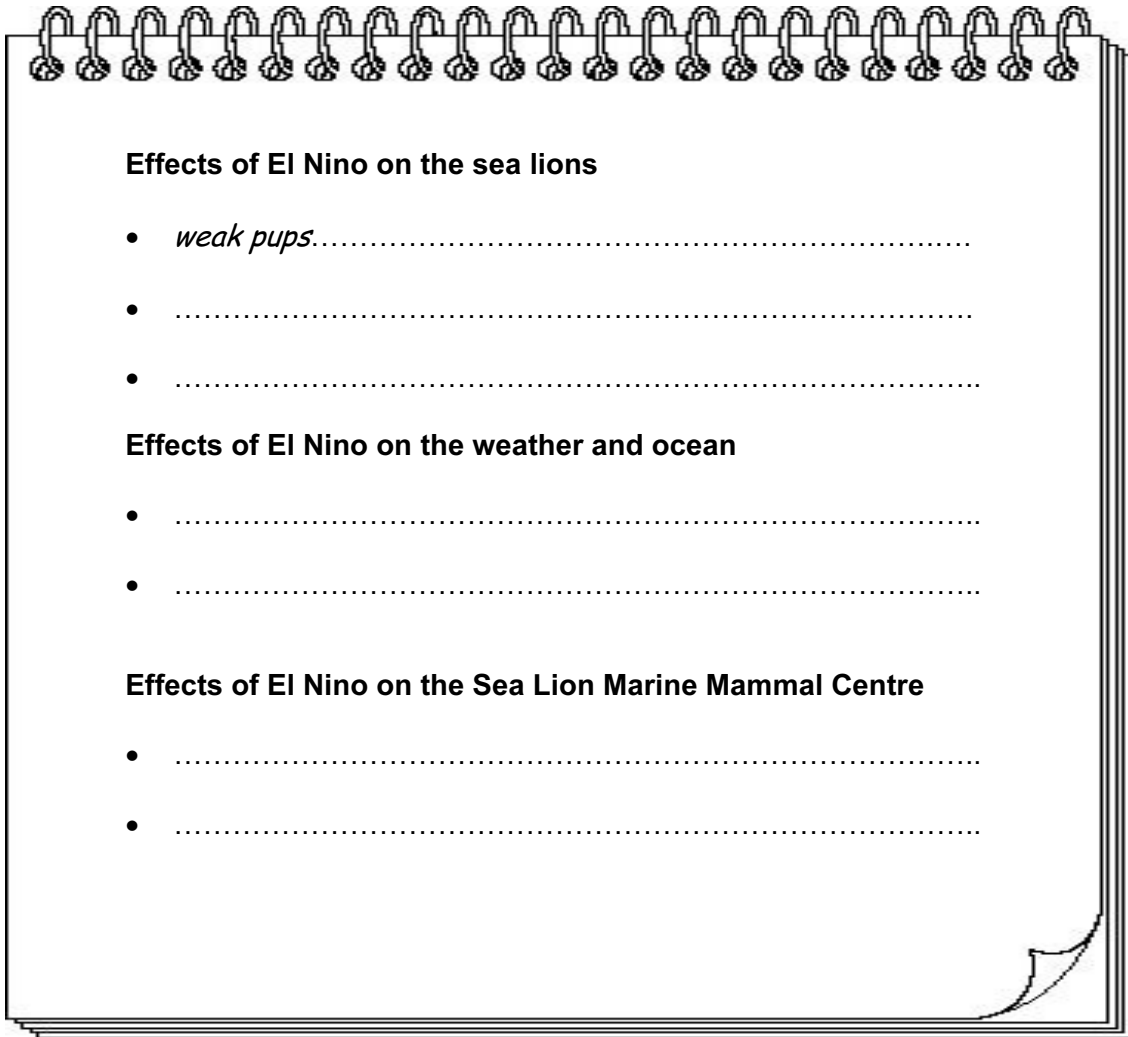

To feed their pups, the mothers have had to spend more time and energy searching for food. In a normal year about 1500 seals and sea lions end up on the beaches of California. This year the prediction is for at least twice that number.

But last Sunday, El Nino did not seem so big and bad. Last Sunday was a release day. The Centre released four pups back into the ocean, including the first two taken in during this long season of storms. The Centre's staff and volunteers loaded the sea lions into pet carriers and drove them to a beach a little farther away than normal. The beach that the Centre usually uses to release the animals is under water, another victim of El Nino.

The cages were carried across the sand by about a hundred beachgoers and put down a few yards from the roaring surf. As the young sea lions disappeared under a big wave and bobbed up again a few moments later, everyone cheered from the beach.

You are preparing to give a short talk to your class about the effects of El Nino.

On the notepad on the opposite page, make two short notes under each heading as a plan for your presentation. Do not use complete sentences. (An example is given under the first heading.)

9. filled to capacity
10. closed its gift shop
11. office converted into special care unit

Max total for exercise: 6 marks

Exercise 5: Summary

This exercise is marked for language, not content, but if content is entirely irrelevant to the task, a mark of zero should be awarded.

Count words and do not mark anything exceeding 70 words, as specified in the question. (Candidates will not be assessed on anything they have written after this limit, but will not be penalised per se for exceeding it.)

0	meaning obscure because of density of language problems and serious problems with expression / nothing of relevance
1	expression weak / reliance on lifting from the passage
2	expression limited / reliance on copying out the notes, but some sense of order
3	expression good, with attempts to group and sequence ideas in own words
4	expression very good: clear, orderly grouping and sequencing, largely own words

Max. total for exercise: 4 marks

Exercise 6: Writing 1

Exercise 7: Writing 2

The following general instructions, and table of marking criteria, apply to both exercises.

- Award the answer a mark for content (C) and a mark for language (L) . Write C and the mark + L and the mark = ringed total.
- Award the answer a mark for content (C) [out of 5] and a mark for language (L) [out of 5] in accordance with the General Criteria table that follows. Write C and the mark + L and the mark = ringed total [out of 10].
- Content covers relevance (i.e. whether the piece fulfils the task and the awareness of purpose/audience/register) and the development of ideas (i.e. the detail/explanation provided and how enjoyable it is to read).
- Language covers style (i.e. complexity of vocabulary and sentence structure) and accuracy (of grammar, spelling, punctuation and use of paragraphs).
- When deciding on a mark for content or language, first of all decide which mark band is most appropriate. There will not necessarily be an exact fit. You then have to decide between 2 marks within that mark band. Use the lower mark if it only just makes it into the band and the upper mark if it fulfils all the requirements of the band but doesn't quite make it into the band above.
- When deciding on a mark for content, look at both relevance and development of ideas. First ask yourself whether the writing fulfils the task, in terms of points to be covered and the length. If it does, it will be in the 4-5 mark band.
- When deciding on a mark for language, look at both the style and the accuracy of the language. A useful starting point would be first to determine whether errors intrude. If they do not, it will be in the 4-5 mark band.
- The use of paragraphs should not be the primary basis of deciding which mark band the work is in. Look first at the language used and once you have decided on the appropriate mark band, you can use the paragraphing as a factor in helping you to decide whether the work warrants the upper or lower mark in the mark band.
- If the essay is considerably less than the stated word length, it should be put in mark band 2-3 for content or lower for not fulfilling the task.
- If the essay is totally irrelevant and has nothing to do with the question asked, it should be given 0 marks for Content and Language, even if it is enjoyable to read and fluent.
- If the essay is partly relevant and therefore in mark band 2-3, the full range of marks for Language are available.

Max. total for Exercise 6: 10 marks

Max. total for Exercise 7: 10 marks

GENERAL CRITERIA FOR MARKING EXERCISES 6 and 7 (PAPER 1 – CORE TIER)

Mark band	CONTENT: relevance and development of ideas	Mark band	LANGUAGE: style and accuracy
4-5	Satisfactory: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Relevance: Fulfils the task, with reasonable attempt at appropriate register, and some sense of purpose and audience. A satisfactory attempt has been made to address the topic, but there may be digressions. • Development of ideas: Material is satisfactorily developed at appropriate length. 	4-5	Safe: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Style: Mainly simple structures and vocabulary, sometimes attempting more sophisticated language. • Accuracy: Meaning is clear, and work is of a safe, literate standard. Simple structures are generally sound, apart from infrequent spelling errors, which do not interfere with communication. Grammatical errors occur when more sophistication is attempted. Paragraphs are used but without coherence or unity.
2-3	Partly relevant: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Relevance: Partly relevant and some engagement with the task. Does not quite fulfil the task, although there are some positive qualities. Inappropriate register, showing insufficient awareness of purpose and/or audience. • Development of ideas: Supplies some detail and explanation, but the effect is incomplete. Some repetition. 	2-3	Errors intrude: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Style: Simple structures and vocabulary. • Accuracy: Meaning is sometimes in doubt. Frequent, distracting errors hamper precision and slow down reading. However, these do not seriously impair communication. Paragraphs absent or haphazard.
0-1	Little relevance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Limited engagement with task, but this is mostly hidden by density of error. Award 1 mark. • No engagement with the task, or any engagement with task is completely hidden by density of error. Award 0 marks. NB: If essay is completely irrelevant, no mark can be given for Language.	0-1	Hard to understand: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Multiple types of error in grammar/spelling/word usage/punctuation throughout, which mostly make it difficult to understand. Occasionally, sense can be deciphered. Paragraphs absent or haphazard. Award 1 mark. • Density of error completely obscures meaning. Whole sections impossible to recognise as pieces of English writing. Paragraphs absent or haphazard. Award 0 marks.

The following newspaper article is about an area in the north of India where people frequently travel in search of adventure. Read it carefully and then answer the questions on the opposite page.

The Himalaya mountains are a favourite destination of more and more people. Improved transport, access to previously forbidden areas, and the increasing number of specialised tour operators have all contributed to a rapid rise in the number of tourists entering the area in the last three decades. This increase has caused problems throughout the region and in Nandra Devi in particular. Now conservation work has started to try and improve the situation.

Nandra Devi lies 530 kilometres northeast of Delhi and is regarded by people living there as the most beautiful of the Himalaya mountains. The surrounding area is called the 'Valley of the Lost Horizon' and is rich in animal, plant and bird life.

The Himalaya (which are a series of mountain ranges with valleys in between them) are the world's highest mountains, and run from southeast to northwest. They separate India from China, and evolved 80 million years ago, when hard volcanic rocks were thrust against soft sedimentary crust, forcing it upward. This process continues, and the mountains rise by up to 8mm each year.

Nandra Devi National Park opened to tourists in 1974 but, because there were no restrictions and no rules, the area had to be closed again in 1983 to give it time to recover from the destruction caused by the tourists. At the time of writing this article, the park is still closed.

Before the area was closed in 1983 the mountaineers, trekkers, naturalists, ornithologists, botanists, geologists and researchers who entered the area in their thousands had a devastating effect. There were three main problems as a result. The first problem was overgrazing, caused by the large number of pack animals needed to support expeditions. This meant that the natural vegetation was replaced by very much harder kinds of grass and other plants which the animals would not eat. The trouble was that the native wild animals wouldn't eat it either. Second, the porters who accompanied the expeditions to Nandra Devi were often not supplied with fuel for cooking or with tents for shelter. This meant that large numbers of trees were cut down both for cooking fires and to build shelters. Thinning out the forests eroded the topsoil and plant life was disturbed, causing unstable conditions. Third, the amount of rubbish increased and became a significant problem made worse by huge amounts of unused equipment which was just dumped by departing mountaineering expeditions. Medicines that had been left behind entered the water system. This caused river pollution and was harmful to wildlife. According to Dr Ahmed Patel of the Tenzing Conservation Institute, 'the dreadful consequences of this pollution will probably not be fully known for another two or more generations -- drastic action is needed to stop things getting even worse.'

The area of Nandra Devi has been chosen as one of twelve areas in India which are going to be preserved as areas of special interest. It is certainly true that if it is going to be opened again to tourists there will have to be rules to make sure that damage does not occur again.

(a) Give two reasons why the number of tourists visiting the Himalaya area increased.

.....[2]

(b) Give two reasons why the Nandra Devi area is special.

.....[1]

(c) What annual change happens to the mountains?

..... [1]

(d) Why did the park have to close in 1983?

.....[1]

(e) What was the main problem with the new types of grass?

.....[1]

(f) Explain why the trees being cut down caused problems.

.....[1]

(g) What were the effects of the discarded medicines?

(h) Based on what you have read, make a list of six points of advice which you would give to an expedition visiting Nandra Devi.

Exercise 3

Kim Jones is 16 and attends ABC International School, 321 Town Road, Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar (situated in the Indian Ocean, and the world's fifth largest island). The school's email address is ABC@education.org.mg, and its office telephone number is 867300 (putting code 261 before it if dialling from outside Madagascar). In an emergency when the school is closed, the school secretary, Ms Smith, may be contacted on 867324. Kim's school has recently been lucky to win an amazing prize in a competition. The prize is for a group of students (plus two of their teachers) to visit Toronto, Canada, to attend a Special Educational Residential Course – entirely free of charge. They will be staying at the Course Centre during their visit.

Twenty students at Kim's school (including Kim) - ten boys and ten girls – will attend the course, and they will be accompanied by their teachers Ms A. Roma and Mr V. Zachariah. The students will be accommodated in pairs, with boys and girls occupying separate accommodation blocks. The course will last for four days, from Monday 17 July until Thursday 20 July inclusive, but because of the long journey involved the group will need to arrive one day before the start of the course, departing after breakfast on 21 July. They will fly out from Madagascar's main airport, and the number of the flight they have booked is MM001. The daily programme for the course will begin at 8.15 each morning. At the weekend, lunch is served at 1.00 pm, but is one hour earlier on all other days. The course finishes each day at 4.00 pm and then there is a relaxation period of one hour, and study preparation of one and a half hours before dinner.

There are facilities available for the group to relax, and there will be one afternoon of a choice of organized activities. In Kim's group most of the students are interested in drawing and painting, and table tennis and/or performing plays; the rest enjoy swimming and going for long walks. At the course Centre there is a swimming pool (but it is open on Saturdays and Sundays only). One of the days of the course will involve a tour of the historic sights of Toronto, with a packed lunch provided; transport by bus can be supplied if requested. Eleven of the students in the group are strict vegetarians, and one of them is seriously allergic to wheat. Just over a third of the group speak Malagasy as their 'main' language when they are back at home with their families; the main languages spoken by the others are (in alphabetical order): Afrikaans, Arabic, Dhivehi, French, Greek, Kreol, Mandarin, Setswana, Spanish, Turkish and Urdu. All the students in Kim's group are used to talking to their teachers and to each other in English at school, and they are all studying it for an IGCSE examination.

So that everything will run smoothly, the Course Centre organizers need Kim's school to give them some information before arrival, and the task has been given to Kim.

Imagine you are Kim, and complete the form on the following page.

Exercise 4

Read the following article about saffron, a substance which is obtained from a flower.

Then complete the notes on the opposite page.

SAFFRON

Saffron is sometimes referred to as the “Royal Flower” because in ancient Greece saffron was used as a royal colour. In ancient Rome, citizens added it to their bath water to make it fragrant. In India, it was – and still is – an essential cookery ingredient. Saffron was also strewn on the ground of early theatres for its fragrance.

But where did saffron originate? There are claims that it came from the Mediterranean area and was cultivated and used extensively in Greece, Rome and Asia Minor. It was introduced into Spain in the tenth century, and in the thirteenth century it reached China.

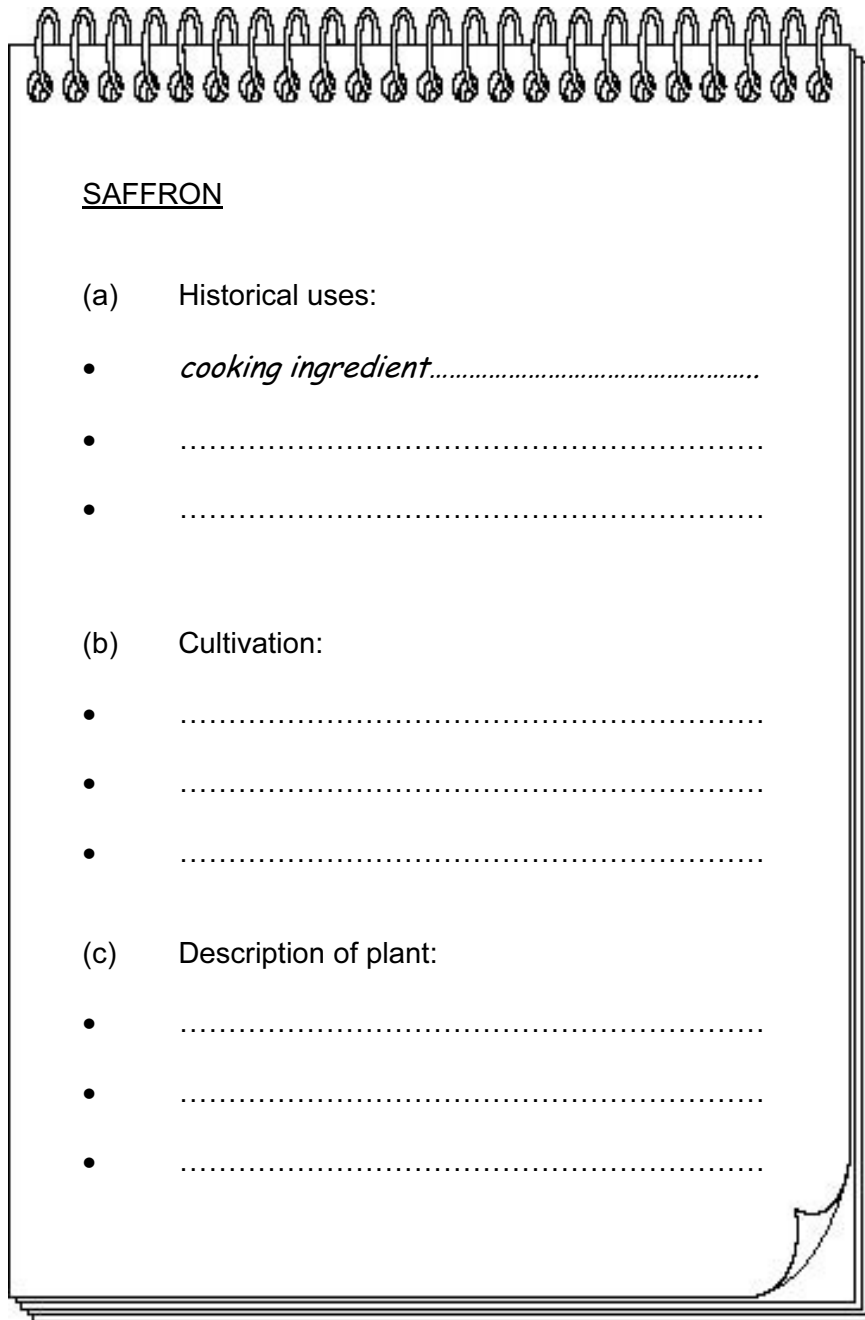

The cultivation of saffron is an art. The seeds have to be sown on a slope. Prior to that, a separate one square metre bed has to be prepared for the saffron for three seasons. The saffron bulbs have a life of about fourteen years. No artificial fertiliser or irrigation is used. The bulbs are planted in July/August and the plant grows to a height of 5-6 cm only. Each flower has six lilac-coloured petals and each bulb produces only one or two flowers. A flowerbed usually contains 12-16 flowers, but more than a million flowers are needed to produce a kilogram of this expensive spice.

When the saffron flowers are in full bloom, entire villages gather to collect thousands of flowers until the fields have been completely harvested of saffron flowers. Saffron itself is derived from the long stigmas of these flowers after the flowers have been handpicked and carefully dried under the sun.

About 3,000 acres in the region of Kashmir is devoted to saffron cultivation, and this area gives yield to about 5,000 kilograms of saffron annually. In India, saffron growing is restricted to Kashmir, but further afield Iran and Spain are both saffron producers, with France, Sicily and England also growing small quantities.

Saffron still remains a very expensive and sought after spice. Perhaps it will be grown on a wider basis in the future in order to satisfy demand and help to lower its cost.

You are going to give a short talk about saffron to your class. Make three short notes under each heading below as a basis for your talk. The first note has been done for you.

Exercise 5

Read the following article about a snake park, and then write a summary of its aims.

Your summary should be one paragraph of no more than 100 words.

You should use your own words as much as you can.

You will be given up to 6 marks for relevant points that you make and up to 4 marks for the way in which you write about these points.

SNAKES ALIVE!

In the middle of Katraj Snake Park, Mr Khaire, the director of the park, and his team look after a host of poisonous and non-poisonous snakes which live in specially dug pits. The aim of the park is to educate visitors about snakes.

Mr Khaire's interest in snakes began during the monsoon of 1969 when he saved the life of a poisonous snake in a holiday camp he was managing at the time. He later released the snake safely into the wild. Khaire then bought a book about snakes and began to study. He rescued snakes which were in danger of being beaten to death and released them. As a result, he realised that 85% of snakes are not poisonous. They are largely harmless and generally only bite when provoked or threatened. Khaire realised that he had found his mission in life: to educate people about snakes.

To reinforce this idea, Mr Khaire carried out a stunt. This involved spending 72 hours in a glass enclosure with 72 poisonous snakes. He was hoping to clear up misconceptions about snakes. His experiment attracted a lot of attention and created awareness about these reptiles. Following this, he approached the authorities for a space in which to create a snake park. Here snakes could be kept to educate the public and rescued snakes could find shelter. Four snakepits were dug and an exhibition hall was built. The park was opened in 1986 and since then Mr Khaire and his team of volunteers have been looking after the snakes. They maintain the park, give lectures, create exhibitions and conduct research about snakes. They also identify rare types of snake and study their breeding patterns.

Although the initial objectives of the snake park were to rescue, release, breed and create awareness about snakes, the team also nurse and release other lost and injured animals and birds. All can find a shelter there and become part of the snake park family until fully recovered. An orphanage was created in order to nurse these extra creatures back to health.

The snake park team is always busy. Zoos with reptile problems often contact the park for information, and people who have spotted a snake near their homes call the snake park frequently for help!

Section D

It is expected that most candidates will write a sentence that picks up one or more aspects of the information provided in the question paper, but they are not required to -- as long as what is written has broad relevance to the context, they may score.

Mark this sentence as follows:

2 marks: no fewer than 12 and no more than 20 words; proper sentence construction; correct spelling and punctuation; relevant to context

4	expression very good: clear, orderly grouping and sequencing, largely own words

Add content and language marks to get a mark out of 10.

Max total for exercise: 10

Exercise 6: Writing 1Exercise 7: Writing 2

The following general instructions, and table of marking criteria, apply to both exercises.

- Award the answer a mark for content (C) [out of 9] and a mark for language (L) [out of 9] in accordance with the General Criteria table that follows. Write C and the mark + L and the mark = ringed total [out of 18].

- Content covers relevance (i.e. whether the piece fulfils the task and the awareness of purpose/audience/register) and the development of ideas (i.e. the detail/explanation provided and how enjoyable it is to read).
- Language covers style (i.e. complexity of vocabulary and sentence structure) and accuracy (of grammar, spelling, punctuation and use of paragraphs).
- When deciding on a mark for content or language, first of all decide which mark band is most appropriate. There will not necessarily be an exact fit. You then have to decide between 2 marks within that mark band. Use the lower mark if it only just makes it into the band and the upper mark if it fulfils all the requirements of the band but doesn't quite make it into the band above.
- When deciding on a mark for content, look at both relevance and development of ideas. First ask yourself whether the writing fulfils the task, in terms of points to be covered and the length. If it does, it will be in one of the top three mark bands. When deciding on a mark for language, look at both the style and the accuracy of the language. A useful starting point would be first to determine whether errors intrude. If they do not, it will be in one of the top three mark bands. The use of paragraphs should not be the primary basis of deciding which mark band the work is in. Look first at the language used and once you have decided on the appropriate mark band, you can use the paragraphing as a factor in helping you to decide whether the work warrants the upper or lower mark in the mark band.
- If the essay is considerably less than the stated word length, it should be put in mark band 2-3 for content or lower for not fulfilling the task.
- If the essay is totally irrelevant and has nothing to do with the question asked, it should be given 0 marks for Content and Language, even if it is enjoyable to read and fluent.
- If the essay is partly relevant and therefore in mark band 2-3, the full range of marks for Language are available.

Max. total for Exercise 6: 18 marks

Max. total for Exercise 7: 18 marks
