

MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2006 question paper

0470 HISTORY

0470/01

Paper 1, maximum raw mark 60

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began.

All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes must be read in conjunction with the question papers and the report on the examination.

The grade thresholds for various grades are published in the report on the examination for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses.

- CIE will not enter into discussions or correspondence in connection with these mark schemes.

CIE is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2006 question papers for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses and some Ordinary Level syllabuses.

APPLICATION OF THE MARK SCHEME

1. Use of the Mark Scheme

- 1.1. It is not possible to cover every possible type of response within a levels of response mark scheme and examiners are expected to use their professional judgement at all times in ensuring that responses are placed in the correct levels and given an appropriate mark within that level.
- 1.2. Marking must be positive. Marks must not be deducted for inaccurate or irrelevant answers. Half- marks must not be used.
- 1.3. The full range of marks should be used. Do not be afraid to award full marks or no marks. Failure to do this will seriously affect the distribution of marks. Be prepared to reward candidates who show any level of understanding. The mark scheme starts from basic acceptable response.
- 1.4. Be consistent from script to script and from batch to batch.
- 1.5. Indicate that all answers have been seen.
- 1.6. Do not transfer marks from one part of a question to another.
- 1.7. If a candidate reaches a particular level s/he must be rewarded with a mark within that level. It is not necessary to work through the levels.
- 1.8. Exhaustive lists of possible facts are not given in the mark scheme, as there is often a choice of factual knowledge that candidates may use.
- 1.9. WHERE EXAMPLES OF RESPONSES ARE GIVEN, THESE ARE NOT PRESCRIPTIVE, BUT ARE INTENDED AS A GUIDE.
- 1.10. Where a band of marks is indicated for a level these marks should be used with reference to the development of the answer within that level.

2. Marking

- 2.1. All marking should be in red.
- 2.2. The level, and mark awarded for each part question, MUST be shown clearly in the margin of the script towards the end of an answer, e.g. L3/8.
- 2.3. At the end of each question the total mark achieved by the candidate for that question MUST be indicated in a circle.
- 2.4. The total mark for each question should be transferred to the front page of the script. The marks for the three questions should be totalled and indicated. The final total for the script should then be circled.
- 2.6. It is not necessary to tick the body of an answer and examiners should refrain from doing so.
- 2.7. Examiners must indicate, in the body of the response, where a level has been achieved and, where appropriate, marks are gained.

'It was suggested in 1870 that Prince Leopold take the crown of Spain. France left Prussia in no doubt that this was unacceptable. So the matter was initially dropped but raised again by Bismarck in July. Again the French protested successfully. Stupidly Gramont, the French foreign minister, wanted to humiliate the Prussians by asking for a guarantee that the claim would not be renewed. Under these circumstances, the old hostility to the Weimar Republic re-surfaced with people blaming the government. Many turned to parties, such as the Nazis, as they offered a radical solution to Germany's problems.'

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement

e.g. Effect on the people

'The workers were constantly bombarded with propaganda, posters, slogans and radio broadcasts. They all had strict targets to meet and they were fined if they did not meet them. Heroes such as Stakhanov were used by the propaganda machine to encourage greater effort.'

'A new elite emerged. This included teachers, scientists, engineers, factory managers and skilled workers who were paid more than the ordinary workers and received extra benefits such as better housing. This higher standard of living went against Communist principles. Many gained well-paid jobs and unemployment was almost non-existent. So short were male workers that by 1937, 40% of the work force was female.'

'In 1940 the USSR had more doctors per head of population than Britain, education became free and compulsory for all and huge investment was made in training schemes in colleges and in the work place to create a skilled workforce.'

'Factory discipline was strict and punishments severe. Lateness or absence was punished by sacking and this often meant the loss of the home as well. The secret police prevented free movement of workers. Workers on large projects often included prisoners, political opponents, kulaks or Jews.'

'The concentration on heavy industry resulted in less availability of consumer goods such as clothes which the ordinary people wanted to buy. Overcrowding remained a problem and wages remained low.'

Impact on Economy

e.g. 'It is impossible to know exactly how successful the Five-Year Plans were. Any Soviet figures are unreliable but the Plans did have spectacular economic results although not all the targets were met. By 1940 the USSR was the world's second largest industrial power.'

'Even by 1932 the growth had been astonishing at the time of the Great Depression. Although oil was the only one to reach its target even the least successful had grown nearly 50%.'

e.g. 'After the War, Europe imported far less food from the USA partly because Europe was poor and partly a response to US tariff which stopped Europe exporting to the USA.'
'The Canadian wheat producers were highly efficient and brought stiff competition to the US farmers.'
'An underlying problem was over-production. Up to 1920, when farming was doing well, more and more land was used for farming. Improved machinery such as the combined harvester made US agriculture extremely efficient. The result of this was that it was producing surpluses of wheat nobody wanted.'
'With reduced incomes many farmers could not afford to pay back the loans they had taken out to buy the new machinery this resulted in eviction and unemployment.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement

3-5

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement

e.g. Republican Policies
'Presidents Harding and Coolidge believed in a policy of laissez-faire or not interfering with the economy. Instead they encouraged the growth of industry by low taxes. These encouraged business owners to invest and give consumers more money to spend.'
'They also protected American industry by introducing tariffs as part of the US isolationist policy. Here a tax was placed on foreign goods coming into the US making them more expensive than those produced at home and thus making them harder to sell.'
'The Republican governments did not like trade unions. Employers were allowed to use violence to break strikes and refuse to employ union members. This meant employers could hold down wages and to keep working hours long.'

Other reasons

'The widespread availability of electricity created a demand for consumer goods such as radios, vacuum cleaners and refrigerators. This was aided by new products such as rayon, bakelite and cellophane.'
'The introduction of credit purchases gave opportunities for people to own goods whilst paying for them by instalments.'
'The expansion of the motor industry boosted the whole economy as more and more cars were bought. It stimulated other industries such as the oil industry, the construction industry as well as steel, rubber and glass.'
'The USA was rich in raw materials such as oil, iron ore and coal and did not have to purchase these abroad, keeping down costs.'

'Economy slowing down.'
'Share prices stopped going up.'
'Speculators tried to sell to save something.'

Level 3 Explains why

e.g. 'Americans bought shares on the stock market to make a profit. As more shares were bought share prices kept rising. People bought shares on credit expecting to sell them for a profit. This is called speculation. On Black Thursday prices plunged and this caused investors to sell to try and cut their losses.'
'People were allowed to buy 'on the margin' where they paid only a small percentage of the real price. Then re-selling at a profit and paying of the balance. Banks were happy to lend money but everything depended on the price going up. In 1928 share prices did not rise as much as the economy was slowing down. Some speculators began to sell.'
'By the end of the 1920s, the US economy was slowing down. Demand for consumer goods was falling and therefore profits were reducing. American businessmen found it difficult to sell abroad because of the US tariff policy.'

Candidates may well build their arguments around the following points.

e.g. 'Land reform had made Mao popular as land was taken from the landlords and re-distributed to the peasants. Grain production had climbed to a record high by 1952.'

'Despite this many were disappointed when they realised they did not have the equipment or the money to purchase. This led to some joining mutual aid teams sharing equipment and animals.'

'Most peasants' farms were too small to be farmed efficiently, meaning they could not increase food output to the level needed for the Five-Year Plan and change was needed.'

'The government feared that if the peasants kept their plot of land, they would become a new class in society, concerned only with making a profit for themselves and opposing any change to their status.'

'The census of 1951 showed that China's population was 600 million and rising fast. If famine was to be avoided food production needed to be increased greatly. At the time the average farm was less than 2.5 acres. Larger farms and more modern methods were needed if famine was to be avoided.'

'Co-operatives were encouraged so resources could be pooled on a larger scale and crops grown efficiently. Peasants opposed this as it meant giving up the land received in 1950. This system remained until 1958.'

'The London dockers were paid low wages and not always guaranteed work. A claim for 6d an hour was rejected and a five week strike followed (1889). The strikers picketed the docks so that non-union members could not work. This brought the docks to a standstill with food rotting on the ships. After five weeks the dock owners listened to Cardinal Manning and the mediating committee and the dockers won.'
