1. Introduction

1.1 Why choose Cambridge?

University of Cambridge International Examinations (CIE) is the world's largest provider of international qualifications. Around 1.5 million students from 150 countries enter Cambridge examinations every year. What makes educators around the world choose Cambridge?

Recognition

Cambridge IGCSE is internationally recognised by schools, universities and employers as equivalent to UK GCSE. Cambridge IGCSE is excellent preparation for A/AS Level, the Advanced International Certificate of Education (AICE), US Advanced Placement Programme and the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma. Learn more at www.cie.org.uk/recognition.

Support

CIE provides a world-class support service for teachers and exams officers. We offer a wide range of teacher materials to Centres, plus teacher training (online and face-to-face) and student support materials. Exams officers can trust in reliable, efficient administration of exams entry and excellent, personal support from CIE Customer Services. Learn more at www.cie.org.uk/teachers.

Excellence in education

Cambridge qualifications develop successful students. They not only build understanding and knowledge required for progression, but also learning and thinking skills that help students become independent learners and equip them for life.

Not-for-profit, part of the University of Cambridge

CIE is part of Cambridge Assessment, a not-for-profit organisation and part of the University of Cambridge. The needs of teachers and learners are at the core of what we do. CIE invests constantly in improving its qualifications and services. We draw upon education research in developing our qualifications.

1. Introduction

1.2 Why choose Cambridge IGCSE Sociology?

Cambridge IGCSE Sociology is accepted by schools universities and employers as proof of knowledge and understanding. Successful IGCSE Sociology candidates gain lifelong skills, including:

- a better understanding of how we become who we are
- the ability to analyse human behaviour within one's own society, between different cultures and across different periods of time
- an appreciation of the effects that choice of methodology can have on social science investigations
- the ability to use sociological evidence and ideas to challenge one's own beliefs and the beliefs of other people about issues such as equality, education, the family and crime.

1.3 Cambridge International Certificate of Education (ICE)

Cambridge ICE is the group award of the International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE). It requires the study of subjects drawn from the five different IGCSE subject groups. It gives schools the opportunity to benefit from offering a broad and balanced curriculum by recognising the achievements of students who pass examinations in at least seven subjects, including two languages, and one subject from each of the other subject groups.

The Cambridge portfolio of IGCSE qualifications provides a solid foundation for higher level courses such as GCE A and AS Levels and the International Baccalaureate Diploma as well as excellent preparation for employment.

A wide range of IGCSE subjects is available and these are grouped into five curriculum areas. Sociology (0495) falls into Group II, Humanities and Social Science.

Learn more about ICE at www.cie.org.uk/qualifications/academic/middlesec/ice.

1.4 How can I find out more?

If you are already a Cambridge Centre

You can make entries for this qualification through your usual channels, e.g. CIE Direct. If you have any queries, please contact us at international@cie.org.uk.

If you are not a Cambridge Centre

You can find out how your organisation can become a Cambridge Centre. Email us at international@cie.org.uk. Learn more about the benefits of becoming a Cambridge Centre at www.cie.org.uk.

2. Assessment at a glance

Cambridge IGCSE Sociology Syllabus code 0495

Candidates take:
Paper 1	2 hours 30 minutes
Candidates answer one compulsory question on sociological research methods and three optional questions on culture and socialisation; social stratification and inequality and power and authority.
Weighting: 60% of total marks
and:
Paper 2	1 hour 45 minutes
Candidates answer three optional questions on the family; education; crime, deviance and social control and the mass media.
Weighting: 40% of total marks

Availability

This syllabus is examined in the May/June examination session and the October/November examination session.

This syllabus is available to private candidates.

Centres in the UK that receive government funding are advised to consult the CIE website www.cie.org.uk for the latest information before beginning to teach this syllabus.

Combining this with other syllabuses

Candidates can combine this syllabus in an examination session with any other CIE syllabus, except:

- syllabuses with the same title at the same level
- 2251 O Level Sociology

Please note that IGCSE, Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificates and O Level syllabuses are at the same level.

3. Syllabus aims and objectives

3.1 Aims

The aims of this syllabus are set out below and describe the educational purposes of Cambridge IGCSE Sociology. The aims are to:

1. promote candidates' awareness, knowledge and understanding of human societies
2. develop candidates' understanding of sociological method, including the collection, analysis and interpretation of data
3. provide an introduction to sociological concepts, theories and research findings
4. stimulate awareness of the range and limitations of sociological theory and research
5. promote candidates' understanding of continuity and change in social life
6. encourage a critical awareness of social, economic and political processes, and their effects
7. develop the capacity for the critical evaluation of different forms of information and evidence
8. promote an appreciation and understanding of individual, social and cultural diversity
9. enhance candidates' ability to apply sociological knowledge and understanding to their own lives and participation within society.

3.2 Assessment objectives and their weightings

Assessment Objectives (AOs) are intended areas of competence within the subject. To pass IGCSE Sociology candidates must demonstrate the following:

AOA: Knowledge and understanding

Candidates should be able to:

- 1 demonstrate knowledge and understanding of appropriate sociological topics
- 2 understand the theoretical and practical considerations influencing the design and execution of sociological enquiry
- 3 understand and apply sociological terminology and concepts.

AOB: Interpretation of evidence

Candidates should be able to:

- 4 demonstrate an awareness of the main methods of sociological enquiry and their uses
- 5 interpret and apply relevant evidence and data
- 6 show an awareness of different types and sources of evidence.

3. Syllabus aims and objectives

AOC: Analysis and Evaluation

Candidates should be able to:

- 7 evaluate the strengths and limitations of particular sociological studies and methods
- 8 recognise limitations and bias in evidence and to distinguish between fact, opinion and value
- 9 reach conclusions based on a reasoned consideration of available evidence
- 10 organise and present sociological evidence and arguments in a coherent and purposeful form.

3.3 Weightings

Assessment Objective	Paper 1 (%)	Paper 2 (%)
A: Knowledge and understanding	40	40
B: Interpretation of evidence	30	30
C: Analysis and evaluation	30	30

The assessment objectives are weighted to give an indication of their relative importance. They are not intended to provide a precise statement of the number of marks allocated to particular assessment objectives.

3. Syllabus aims and objectives

3.4 Description of components

All candidates will take Papers 1 and 2.

Paper 1 (2½ hours)

Candidates will answer one compulsory question on sociological research methods from Section A and three questions from Sections B to D.

The compulsory question in Section A will be based on source material. The question will carry one third of the marks for the paper. Candidates should spend approximately three-quarters of an hour answering this question. Section A will test Syllabus Unit 1.

Sections B to D will consist of structured questions based on stimulus material. The stimulus will take the form of a short quotation or statement from a sociological source. Sections B to D will test Syllabus Units 2 to 4. There will be two questions related to each of these units.

Paper 1 will test syllabus units 1 to 4.

Paper 2 (1¾ hours)

This will consist of structured questions based on stimulus material. The stimulus will take the form of a short quotation or statement from a sociological source. Candidates will answer three questions from Sections A to D.

Paper 2 will test Syllabus Units 5 to 8. There will be two questions related to each of these units.

Marks will be allocated between the papers on the following basis:

Paper	Weighting
1	60%
2	40%

4. Syllabus content

The content is organised into eight study units, which explore the nature of social relationships, processes and structures. The first unit provides a foundation for the other parts of the syllabus by considering the methods and procedures employed in sociological research. Promoting candidates' understanding of research methods and their limitations is a key component of the syllabus and this underpins each of the other study units.

Teachers should emphasise how different levels of social life (macro and micro) are interconnected and encourage candidates' awareness of the interrelated nature of the social structure. Candidates will also be expected to recognise the significance of class, gender, ethnic and age differences within societies. Cross-cultural and historical comparisons, analysis and examples are encouraged.

The Cambridge IGCSE Sociology syllabus has been designed so that teachers in any society can apply candidates' own experiences, local case studies and sociological work relating to their own way of life to an understanding of the central ideas and themes of Sociology in modern industrial societies.

Paper 1

Unit 1: Research Methods

Candidates should develop an awareness of how information and data are collected in Sociology and be able to evaluate that information. Candidates' awareness of methodological issues and a critical approach to sociological evidence, including primary and secondary data, will support their understanding of other sections of the Sociology curriculum. Candidates will be expected to be familiar with the concepts of generalisation, objectivity, reliability and validity.

(a) How do sociologists study society?

- The main methods of investigation: participant and non-participant observation; questionnaires; interviews; experiments; case studies; longitudinal studies and content analysis.
- Research strategies, for example the use of pilot studies.
- Sampling and sampling methods.
- The stages in devising and implementing a research strategy and the problems that may be encountered.
- The distinction between positivist and interactionist perspectives.

(b) What information and data do sociologists use?

- Primary and secondary data.
- Official and other statistics.
- Published studies.
- Different forms of evidence.

4. Syllabus content

(c) What factors should be considered when evaluating a piece of sociological research?

- The method of data collection and the form of presentation may influence the information given and the conclusions reached.
- The distinction between reliability and validity.
- The potential influence of researcher bias and values in distorting sociological data.

Glossary:

- Positivism
- Interactionist, interpretivist perspectives
- Quantitative data
- Qualitative data
- Primary data
- Secondary data
- Hypothesis
- Sociological methods
- Participant and non-participant observation
- Structured interviews
- Unstructured interviews
- Semi-structured interviews
- Case studies
- Personal documents
- Survey
- Survey population
- Questionnaires
- Postal questionnaires
- Respondent
- Longitudinal studies
- Official statistics
- Content analysis
- Pre-coded questions
- Pilot studies
- Sampling methods: random, stratified random, quota, snowball
- Sampling frame
- Correlations
- Interviewer bias
- Interviewer effect
- Observer effect (Hawthorne effect)
- Ethics
- Validity
- Reliability
- Representativeness
- Generalisation
- Objectivity
- Subjectivity
- Triangulation

4. Syllabus content

Unit 2: Culture and Socialisation

This section considers the relationship between culture, society and the individual. Candidates need to consider the processes and agencies of socialisation.

(a) What is the relationship between individual and society?

- Structuralist and interactionist views of the relationship between individuals and society.
- The distinction between biological, psychological and social explanations of human behaviour.
- The diversity of human behaviour and cultural variation. For example, cultural differences in conceptions of childhood and adolescence and cultural differences in conceptions of normal gender-role behaviour and gender characteristics.

(b) How do we learn to be human?

- The processes of learning and socialisation; primary and secondary socialisation.
- Conformity and non-conformity; the agencies and processes of social control.
- Culture and sub-culture; norms, values, beliefs and ideology.
- Role, age, gender, ethnic group and class as categories in the social construction of differences.

Glossary:

- Norms
- Values
- Culture
- Sub-culture
- Cultural differences
- Sex
- Identity
- Gender roles
- Social roles
- Role conflict
- Nature/nurture
- Socialisation
- Value consensus
- Conformity
- Coercion
- Stable society
- Customs
- Primary socialisation
- Secondary socialisation
- Agencies of socialisation
- Social institutions
- Social construction of childhood
- Gender
- Gender role socialisation
- Social control
- Formal and informal social control
- Social order
- Social Change
- Laws
- Rule of law

4. Syllabus content

Unit 3: Social Stratification and Inequality

This section explores the relationship between social, economic and political processes and patterns of stratification.

(a) What is social stratification?

- Patterns of social stratification with particular reference to differences based on wealth, income, status, power, ethnic group or gender.
- The main forms of stratification: slavery, estate, caste, class, age, ethnicity, sex.
- The distinction between ascribed and achieved status.
- Changes in patterns of social stratification that accompanied industrialisation.

(b) How are social inequalities created? What are the main features of social inequality?

- Wealth and income: the evidence and reasons for the distribution of wealth and income in different societies. The problems of defining wealth and poverty and the consequences of being rich or poor.
- Ethnic grouping: a general knowledge of the nature, size and distribution of different ethnic groups in any one society. Prejudice and discrimination: evidence concerning discrimination in education, employment and life chances. The concept of scape-goats.
- Gender: the differences between sex and gender. The consequences of gender role socialisation. The reasons for, and nature of, the changing role of women in terms of occupation and social roles.
- Social class: evidence pointing to social class differences. The nature, extent and significance of social mobility. An appreciation of the implications of social class for chances in employment, health and life style. The changing nature of the working class, middle class and upper class.

| • Agenda setting | | • Scape-goats |

5. Appendix

5.1 Grade descriptions

The following grade descriptions are intended to give a general indication of the standards of achievement likely to have been achieved by candidates awarded Grades A, C and F. In practice, the grade awarded will depend upon the extent to which the candidate has met the objectives overall, and this might conceal weakness in some aspect of the examination which is balanced by superior performance in some other.

A Grade A candidate will be expected to:

- demonstrate a detailed knowledge and clear understanding of a range of sociological ideas, issues and information through logically structured narratives, description and argument
- apply sociological concepts and terms in the analysis and interpretation of data and in the development of simple explanations of social phenomena and processes
- demonstrate an awareness of the complexity of social life and that differing interpretations of social life are possible
- demonstrate the ability to comprehend, analyse and interpret a range of sociological evidence and theories
- show some awareness of the effect of values and perspectives or viewpoints on the interpretation of sociological data
- recognise the strengths and weaknesses of sociological evidence used for different purposes, particularly in terms of deficiencies and bias.

A Grade C candidate will be expected to:

- recall sufficient sociological information to present narratives or descriptions which show awareness, at a modest level, of the nature of specific sociological problems, issues and arguments, and to use sociological terms and concepts in such a way as to demonstrate an accurate but unsophisticated understanding of them
- demonstrate comprehension of a range of sociological material, and the ability to identify and analyse specific deficiencies in it, though without taking all aspects of the material into account
- reach basic conclusions based on a reasoned consideration of some of the available evidence and arguments.

A Grade F candidate will be expected to:

- recall a limited amount of relevant sociological knowledge, and demonstrate a basic understanding of sociological concepts and terms by the use of obvious examples and comparisons arranged coherently in a simple narrative
- show ability to comprehend straightforward sociological evidence, to make comparisons between different pieces of evidence, but without drawing any more than obvious conclusions from the evidence concerned.

5. Appendix

5.3 Teachers' notes

Cambridge IGCSE Sociology syllabus has a number of features, including the following:

- the syllabus content reflects contemporary developments in Sociology
- the syllabus content is focused and streamlined, with emphasis on themes that stretch across all areas of Sociology, such as research methods, social stratification, culture and socialisation
- the assessment for the syllabus consists of two written papers
- there is one compulsory question on research methods as part of Paper 1
- the syllabus is compatible with the GCE Advanced Subsidiary and Advanced Level (9699) syllabuses, as it is recognised that studying for the higher qualification will be seen as a logical progression for many of those candidates who are successful in the subject at IGCSE.

Topics that are popular with Centres – e.g. social differentiation and inequality, power and authority, deviance and social control – are included in the syllabus content. Moreover, the importance of studying concepts, theories and evidence, as a key to understanding the purpose and value of sociological investigation, is a central theme in the syllabus. The nature of the skills tested is clearly defined in the syllabus.

The syllabus content is divided into eight study units. The assessment consists of two written papers, each covering four study units.

Paper 1 includes a compulsory question on research methods and so it is strongly recommended that candidates are encouraged to develop a good understanding of the subject content outlined in Unit One: Methodology. Candidates should also study in detail at least two of the other three units that are examined in Paper 1.

For Paper 2, it is recommended that candidates study in detail at least two of the four units on which questions will be set. Studying fewer than the recommended number of units would disadvantage the candidate by restricting his/her choice of questions in the examination.

Each examination paper has its own format and Centres are advised to study the rubric requirements carefully and ensure that candidates are fully aware of these requirements before they sit the examination. Mock examinations based on the format and type of questions set in Papers 1 and 2, would be a useful way of preparing candidates for the examination.

This syllabus document includes a list of recommended reading. Ideally, candidates will have access to at least one of the textbooks listed. Other reading may be regarded as optional, although candidates may benefit from studying a range of research reports and other relevant sociological sources.

5. Appendix

Although global processes are an increasingly important theme in Sociology, it remains the case that much of the sociological literature focuses on the highly industrialised countries, the USA and UK in particular. While candidates for this examination are required to demonstrate a sound knowledge of these societies, they may also use relevant sociological examples and sources that relate to other parts of the world, including their own countries. Indeed, the use of more 'localised' sources is to be encouraged, particularly where it complements or supports references to important sociological themes and ideas.

6. Additional information

6.1 Guided learning hours

IGCSE syllabuses are designed on the assumption that candidates have about 130 guided learning hours per subject over the duration of the course. ('Guided learning hours' include direct teaching and any other supervised or directed study time. They do not include private study by the candidate.)

However, this figure is for guidance only, and the number of hours required may vary according to local curricular practice and the candidates' prior experience of the subject.

6.2 Recommended prior learning

Candidates beginning this course are not expected to have studied Sociology previously.

6.3 Progression

IGCSE Certificates are general qualifications that enable candidates to progress either directly to employment, or to proceed to further qualifications.

Candidates who are awarded grades C to A* in IGCSE Sociology are well prepared to follow courses leading to AS and A Level Sociology, or the equivalent.

6.4 Component codes

Because of local variations, in some cases component codes will be different in instructions about making entries for examinations and timetables from those printed in this syllabus, but the component names will be unchanged to make identification straightforward.

6.5 Grading and reporting

IGCSE results are shown by one of the grades A*, A, B, C, D, E, F or G indicating the standard achieved, Grade A* being the highest and Grade G the lowest. 'Ungraded' indicates that the candidate's performance fell short of the standard required for Grade G. 'Ungraded' will be reported on the statement of results but not on the certificate. For some language syllabuses CIE also reports separate oral endorsement grades on a scale of 1 to 5 (1 being the highest).

6. Additional information

Percentage uniform marks are also provided on each candidate's Statement of Results to supplement their grade for a syllabus. They are determined in this way:

- A candidate who obtains...
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade A* obtains a percentage uniform mark of 90%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade A obtains a percentage uniform mark of 80%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade B obtains a percentage uniform mark of 70%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade C obtains a percentage uniform mark of 60%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade D obtains a percentage uniform mark of 50%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade E obtains a percentage uniform mark of 40%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade F obtains a percentage uniform mark of 30%.
 - ... the minimum mark necessary for a Grade G obtains a percentage uniform mark of 20%.
 - ... no marks receives a percentage uniform mark of 0%.

Candidates whose mark is none of the above receive a percentage mark in between those stated according to the position of their mark in relation to the grade 'thresholds' (i.e. the minimum mark for obtaining a grade). For example, a candidate whose mark is halfway between the minimum for a Grade C and the minimum for a Grade D (and whose grade is therefore D) receives a percentage uniform mark of 55%.

The uniform percentage mark is stated at syllabus level only. It is not the same as the 'raw' mark obtained by the candidate, since it depends on the position of the grade thresholds (which may vary from one session to another and from one subject to another) and it has been turned into a percentage.

6.6 Resources

Copies of syllabuses, the most recent question papers and Principal Examiners' reports are available on the Syllabus and Support Materials CD-ROM, which is sent to all CIE Centres.

Resources are also listed on CIE's public website at www.cie.org.uk. Please visit this site on a regular basis as the Resource lists are updated through the year.

Access to teachers' email discussion groups, suggested schemes of work and regularly updated resource lists may be found on the CIE Teacher Support website at <http://teachers.cie.org.uk>. This website is available to teachers at registered CIE Centres.
