

FIRST LANGUAGE TURKISH

Paper 0513/01

Reading

General comments

Question 1

In general candidates performed quite well on this question with all candidates tackling the ten sub-questions. Even candidates whose level of reading comprehension was rather weak, perhaps because of limited use of Turkish in their daily life and/or lack of formal study of the language, demonstrated that they understood the gist of the two passages and were able to answer the questions that required understanding and collating of explicit meanings. Questions (b), (g) and (h) on the other hand enabled stronger candidates to show their understanding of the implicit meanings and attitudes. These candidates were also more competent in scanning for the relevant information and writing exactly what is required to answer the question.

In this question candidates are instructed to answer in their own words. They are also informed that their answers will be marked for writing skills (5 marks). Some candidates demonstrated that they had a good level of reading comprehension by referring to the appropriate part of the text to answer the question, but rather than re-phrasing what they understand and putting it in their own words, they lifted the answer from the text which lost them marks because they were not demonstrating their writing skills.

Some candidates put rather too much of their own personal contribution in their responses, stating facts or making claims that are not in the given texts as well as expressing their thoughts and feelings. This does not earn additional marks because it is often irrelevant to the question being asked. Candidates may even lose marks by writing too much and expecting the Examiner to select the really relevant/required information.

Question 2

As in Question 1, all the candidates tackled this question. A few candidates wrote two summaries, summarising passage A and B separately. Some candidates only summarised one of the passages. Both cases show the vital need for familiarization with the First Language syllabus including the assessment objectives and question types. Candidates are required to write a summary based on both passages.

Although this question does assess the writing skills of the candidates (5 marks), candidates are expected to write a summary of the two texts to show they have understood what they read and can re-phrase it in a summary format.

This question does not require candidates to write their about own thoughts and experiences. Some candidates like to take side with or against the author which is fine as long as most of their writing reflects a summary of the two texts. A summary is not a "composition" about the thoughts/feelings/ideas that the two passages evoke in the candidate. It does not require comments on the ideas/thoughts/facts presented in the texts, neither does it have to end with a personal verdict.

FIRST LANGUAGE TURKISH

Paper 0513/02

Writing

All the topics in the two sections were selected by candidates but some topics proved to be more popular.

Section 1

Topic (a) asked candidates what they thought about wearing uniforms in schools. This was the most popular topic.

Topic (b) asked candidates their views about whether or not to build a dam over a precious archaeological site.

Topic (c) asked candidates whether they would agree to lower the age limit to be elected Prime Minister from fifty, as it is now, to twenty five.

Topic (d) asked candidates what they thought about single and mixed sex schools.

Section 2

Topic (a) asked candidates to write the speech they would make addressing voters for the parliamentary elections, and to describe the country they would want to create if they were elected.

Topic (b) asked candidates to describe the city in which they live, with its location in the country, geography, important structures and the role of the city in determining its citizens' lifestyle.

Topic (c) asked candidates to describe the day a sister, brother or someone they feel close to was born.

Topic (d) asked candidates to write a story using the statements given in the question somewhere in their story. This was the most popular topic.

Candidates performed slightly better in Section 2 as they seem to like describing and narrating better than arguing or discussing. Story telling continues to be the favourite choice. Although the stories are not always very sophisticated, most of the candidates demonstrated a good skill at developing a story, creating an atmosphere and engaging the reader.

General comments

- For an argumentative topic candidates are expected to try to prove a point by reasoning. This means arguing an issue by presenting facts and reasons in support of a position that may be opposed by others.
- For a discursive topic candidates are expected to proceed to a conclusion through reasoning. This means discussing an issue by examining the pros and cons of that issue, creating an opportunity for readers to decide which side they want to take.

A discursive or argumentative piece of writing is not a mere list of claims. The writing objectives of this examination are not only 'expressing what is thought, felt and imagined' but also 'ordering and presenting facts, ideas and opinions'.

- A narrative essay is essentially a story about something that happened. The candidate is expected to try to make his/her text lively and interesting and to try to engage the reader's interest by adding details or personal observations.

- A descriptive essay describes a person, place, thing or event in a way that helps the reader form a mental picture of what is being written about. This type of writing requires a language that appeals to the senses.
- It helps if candidates can demonstrate a clear sense of audience. For example topic (a) this year, requires a very different register from all the other three topics: a sincere but much more formal style.
- It is important to write in well-constructed paragraphs dealing with a certain point of the subject in each one.
- Each piece of writing needs to have a structure: an introduction, at least one paragraph of development and a conclusion which is a restatement of the main point stated in the introduction - not a repetition of the thesis sentence but rather some sentences to emphasize the message to the reader.
- Varied use of words and expressions to manage an argument, discussion, story or description is a good way of increasing marks in this section of the paper.
- The writing skills required for this paper seem to have been carefully practiced in many Centres. Spelling and punctuation and wrong usage mistakes are decreasing every year. However there are some common repeated mistakes. This year's common language mistakes consist of previous years and some new ones.

Common language mistakes (found in Papers 1 and 2)

- Using 'fazla' instead of 'cok' or vice versa is incorrect, e.g. 'olumlu sonuçları da fazladır'.
 'Fazla' - adverb meaning - unnecessary/needless/excessive/uncalled for (Gereksiz, yersiz bir biçimde), more than what is necessary, proper, acceptable, appropriate and what is accustomed to (Gereğinden, alışılmıştan çok olarak).

The word 'fazla' has rather a negative meaning, very similar to the way that 'too' can have in English. 'cok', is the counterpart of 'very'. If you say "Milli takımın taraftarları çok fazla tezahürat yaptılar./ National team's fans cheered too much.", it means may be the match was not played because of cheers, or something negative happened.

Correct usage: 'Seyirci milli takımına çok tezahürat yaptı, moral verdi./The spectators cheered a lot/very much and boosted the morale of the national team' or 'Seyirci fazla tezahürat yapıp, ortalığı dağıtınca maç iptal edildi./The match was cancelled when the spectators cheered too much and turned the place up side down.'

'Gerçeklik payı çok fazla.' (wrong) 'Gerçeklik payı çok.' (correct)
 'Teknolojiyi en fazla kullanan çocukların.' (wrong) 'Teknolojiyi en çok çocukların kullanır.' (correct)

- 'ki' as a suffix/ek: 'benimki', 'karşındaki', 'öbürkü (öbürü)' – 'ki' when used as in these examples is a suffix so it is written as one word with the word used before it ('bitişik yazılır').

Correct usage: 'Bu haftaki programı seyretmedim', 'Kapıdaki zili çalmadan kapıyı açmayın', 'Akşamki toplantıda başkan kim olacak?' 'Bugünkü yemek çok lezzetliydi.'

- 'ki' as a conjunction/bağlaç: Apart from few cases like 'Mademki' 'ki' is written as a separate word when it is used as a conjunction ('ki' bağlacı, kalıplaştığı birkaç sözcük dışında – 'Mademki istiyorsun, git.'- ayrı yazılır)

Correct usage: 'Sen ki benim en iyi arkadaşımın, bana bunu nasıl yaparsın!', 'Ne var ki kimse sözümü dinlemedi.' 'Bazları iddia ederler ki bu otların her biri bir ayrı derde devadır.', 'Ben ki seni o kadar çok severim, ben bile bu davranışını hoş karşılamadım.', 'Öyle sevimli bir kedi ki her yaramazlığı bana mutluluk veriyor.'

- Subject/verb agreement especially with plural indefinite pronouns as subject or indefinite adjective modifying the subject:

Birçok gençler törene geç kaldılar. (wrong) Birçok genç törene geç kaldı. (correct usage) Hiçbiri soruma cevap vermediler. (wrong) Hiçbiri soruma cevap vermedi. (correct usage) Herkes yerde yatan adamın etrafına toplandılar. (wrong) Herkes yerde yatan adamın etrafına toplandı. (correct usage) Birçok kişi kafasını bile çevirmeden uzaklaştılar. (wrong) Birçok kişi kafasını bile çevirmeden uzaklaştı. (correct usage)

- Starting an answer with the word ‘cünkü’/‘because’ or another conjunction.
- ‘Bağızı’ (wrong), ‘bazı’ (correct)
- ‘Hernekadar’ (wrong) ‘her ne kadar’ (correct)
- ‘söglemek’ (wrong), ‘söylemek’ (correct)
- Confusing ‘önce’ with ‘öncelikle’.

Önce (isim/noun):

1. Baştaki, geçmişteki bölüm, geçmiş zaman: “Demin söyledikleri bana sadece daha önce olup bitenleri düşündürdü.” (TDK)

or

2. (zarf/adverb) İlk olarak, başlangıçta, sonra karşıtı: “Önce hep birlikte basın suçunu tarif edelim.” (TDK)

Öncelikle (zarf/adverb): Öne alınarak, daha önce olarak: “Bu tasarı, Mecliste öncelikle görüşülecek.” (TDK)

- Confusing ‘kulak asmak’ with ‘kulak vermek’.

kulak asmak: önem vermek, dinlemek: “Bunların sözlerine ne diye kulak asıyor, yapacağın işi ona göre belirliyorsun?” (TDK) kulak vermek: merak edip dinlemek, işitmeye çalışmak: “Egil de kulak ver, bu sessiz yiğin / Bir vatan kalbinin attığı yerdir.” (TDK)

- Using the words ‘unsur’ and ‘etmen’ when they are not needed in a particular context. This incorrect usage has now largely disappeared.

etmen (isim): birlikte veya ayrı etkisini gösteren ve belli bir sonuca götüren güçlerden, şartlardan, öğelerden her biri, amil, faktör.

unsur (isim): Öge:

- Confusing the meaning of ‘gıda’ or ‘besin’ (food/foodstuff) or ‘ürün’ (produce) and using them with the verb ‘dikmek’ (plant/sow) e.g.: ‘İki tarladan birine genetiğiyle oynamış gıdalar dikiyoruz’ (wrong) (we sow genetically modified food/produce). The correct word would be ‘tohum’, ‘bitki’ ‘sebze’, ‘meyve’ or ‘tahıl’ (seeds, plants, fruit trees etc.).
- Using the verb ‘Sağlamak’ which means to prepare the conditions for something to happen /‘Bir işin olması için gerekli şartları hazırlamak.’ and has a positive connotation like the verbs ‘enable’/facilitate/make possible in a negative context.

‘Fazla ilgi göstererek yeni nesli şırmamasını sağlıyorsunuz.’ (wrong) ‘Fazla ilgi göstererek yeni neslin şırmamasına sebep oluyorsunuz.’ (correct)

‘Psikolojisini kötü etkileyip yalnız kalmak istemesini sağlıyor (wrong) ‘Istemesine sebep/neden oluyor.’ (correct)

- Using very informal/spoken language forms like ‘o şekil kaldım’ instead of ‘o şekilde kaldım’, ‘Beş dakika falan’ instead of ‘beş dakika kadar’.
- Yaklaşık herkes (wrong) Hemen hemen herkes (correct).
- Süpriz (wrong) sürpriz (correct)
- Mafolmak (wrong) mahvolmak (correct)
- Binevi (wrong) bir nevi (bir çeşit) (correct)
- Bağlı (wrong) batılı (çürük, temelsiz, asılsız) (correct)
- Confusing sayesinde (which has a positive connotation)

Bir şeyden dolayı, sebebiyle, yardımıyla: "Çocuk öğrenmişse, ne yapmışsa Ramazan'ın sayesinde yapmıştır." - H. E. Adıvar. (TDK)

1. With yüzünden (rather negative or showing dissatisfaction or resentment)
-den ötürü: "O da çocuklar yüzünden alışmış, onlar yüzünden daha uygun görmüş, karısına anne derdi." - S. F. Abasıyanık (TDK)
 2. And nedeniyle - den ötürü, - den dolayı, dolayısıyla, sebebiyle, hasebiyle, haysiyetiyle.
 3. And dolayı - Ötürü: "Daha dün bu sözümden dolayı okşuyorlardı." - R. H. Karay.
- Discipline olmak (wrong) disiplinli olmak (correct)
 - Önem göstermek (wrong) önem vermek değer vermek, önemli saymak: "Mustafa Kemal'in hareketine gittikçe daha çok önem vermektedir." - F. R. Atay. (correct)