Question 3

As a democratic nation, Australia generally upholds the principles of a free press and media, freedom of speech and freedom of expression.

Despite these general principles ‘media content’ in Australia continues to be regulated in a variety of ways.

With reference to any media form and/or texts you have studied this year discuss

- the major debates about regulation and control of ‘media content’ in Australia
- some of the organisations, groups or individuals involved in the regulation of ‘media content’ in Australia and the roles they perform.
